

Out There in the Mist

The mist hanging over us
Will be gone soon
By the end of another wave
By the coming of the truth

All our memories will flood the dam
That's been holding them back so long
And we'll step into a new scene
And we'll write out a different song

One to bind the best of us
With the best of them
One to teach us how to love
From our roots to our stems

Reaching up to a clearer sky
Making peace with a better mind
Lifting up those who've fallen down
Into hurt and pain

The roads that are empty now
Will be filled with feet
Stepping into avenues
Crossing to new streets

This mist that has stolen all
Our hopes and talk
From the past and the present time
To the future we walk
