

If I Only Had Just Played My Guitar

If I could have my time again
Knowing then what I know now
I would never sing my songs
And I'd only play guitar

Maybe then I'd get to play
On the very biggest stage
If I only had of just played my guitar

But then my friends they would have changed
And I wouldn't be the same
Very likeable
Humane
Very ordinary man

That I continue to be
With my friends and family
If I only had just played my guitar

Now the moral to this story is
That if you try too hard
You will never find the principles
To take you to your art

But if you can summon spirit lords
With only strings and things
Then why didn't you just play your guitar

Now sixteen years have past
Since I more or less each day
Practised for many hours
And made up my own tunes

But I can't find the melody
To get into the groovy gang
If I only had of just played my guitar

If I only had of
If I only had of
If I only had of just played my guitar
